ASK GLOBE TROTTER

Dear Globe Trotter,

My roommate is from Vietnam, and she has invited me to her parents' home for a typical Vietnamese dinner. I'm excited, but nervous about not knowing the correct etiquette. Can you give me some tips?

*Sincerely,
Hungry to Learn*

Dear Hungry to Learn,

It's great that you want to be culturally literate! Here are some things to keep in mind at dinner:

- It's polite to your hosts to take a small gift such as sweets, tea, or coffee. Flowers are an acceptable gift. But do not take the white ones - white is the colour of death.
- It's customary to take off your shoes before entering someone's home.
- People traditionally bow when they are introduced, but some people also shake hands. It's best to wait and see what the other person does.
- If you have trouble with chopsticks, mention your lack of skill and ask for a fork.
- Use two hands to pass a plate to someone or to accept one.
- If you are offered a second or third portion of food, you must accept it. (If you do not, it might be considered offensive.)
- Lastly, if you do not know what to do, it's OK to ask.

*Sincerely,
Globe Trotter*
